Climate Security and Violent Extremism: From Research to Climate-based Risk Assessments and Programming

As a Side-Event on the Margins of the Third United Nations Counter-Terrorism Week 2023, the event will highlight a mapping of terrorist and conflict activity, socioeconomic conditions, and rainfall patterns in the Sahel, and will present perspectives from farmers, herders, fishers, and youth. It will also spotlight innovative approaches helping to better understand and respond to climate insecurity, providing important context for CT and PVE.

The event is organized in partnership with the United Nations Office of Counter-Terrorism (UNOCT), the United Nations Interregional Crime and Justice Research Institute (UNICRI), and the Institute for Economics and Peace (IEP), and is co-sponsored by the Permanent Mission of Canada, the Permanent Mission of Norway, and the Permanent Mission of Mozambique.

The event will be organized in a hybrid format to facilitate participation, with virtual participation taking place via WebEx. The meeting will be conducted in English.
